Coinciding with Salone del Mobile 2019, Herman Miller presents All Together Now, an immersive exhibition that explores the expanding and nearly endless design possibilities offered by the Herman Miller Group’s growing global family of brands. The members of our family are Colebrook Bosson Saunders, Design Within Reach, Geiger, HAY, Maars Living Walls, Maharam, naughtone, Nemschoff, and Herman Miller. All Together Now will feature a dynamic breadth of authentic designs geared toward modern living and working from several of the Herman Miller Group brands presented within the reimagined Herman Miller Italy showroom.

Designed to provoke the imagination and elicit distinctive moods, All Together Now will feature a complementary curation of more than 450 classic and contemporary products from across the Herman Miller Group that will be displayed within five thoughtfully curated, color-blocked vignettes. While expansive in look and feel, each tailored moment is united by the belief that any space worth inhabiting is born from human-centered design.

Visitors to the exhibit will be invited on a journey of discovery as they move through one room to the next. From a bright and cheerful “op-art” bedroom teeming with flora to a rich and expressive fine-dining scene to an airy and design-forward office plan, guests will be encouraged to engage with and rethink what the combined designs within the Herman Miller family can offer.

The exhibit will also feature the worldwide debut of the Pillar Bedroom Group, a unified and discreetly beautiful bedroom collection for Herman Miller by award-winning designer Michael Anastassiades. With a singular focus on quality and an exploration of materiality and details meant to stand the test of time, the Pillar Bedroom Group offers a moment of leisure and contemplation and will be on display for guests to check out throughout the duration of Milan Design Week.

All Together Now will be on view at Herman Miller at Corso Garibaldi 70 in Milan's Brera district from April 9 to 13, 2019. Herman Miller invites the design industry and public at large to discover and experience the possibility of the Herman Miller Group.
